Sprout is a private, not-for-profit organization, founded in 1979, that provides travel and recreation opportunities to individuals with developmental & intellectual disabilities.

Through a contract with Metro NY DDSO, Sprout will provide vacations to young adults with developmental disabilities. We will be offering a 5-day (Monday through Friday) vacation during each of the 2013 NYC School Holiday breaks (February 18-22 to Washington D.C. & March 25-29 to Penn Dutch). We will serve 10 individuals from Manhattan per trip, with no cost to the families involved.

We are looking for candidates for this program. Sprout will serve young adults that are 14 - 21 years of age, moderate to high functioning, non-blind, ambulatory and able to function within the group ratio of 10 participants to three Sprout leaders. Participants must be residents of Manhattan who live with their families and have a primary diagnosis of a developmental disability.

Groups will travel by 15 passenger van. We will offer pick-up and drop-off points in Manhattan. Departures will take place at 10:00am on Monday and the group will return five days later at 6:00pm Friday. We would like input from participants for future destinations.

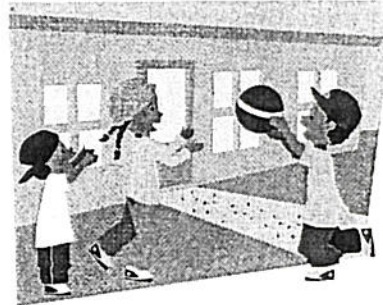

This is an exciting opportunity for all persons involved and we are looking forward to providing a wonderful vacation experience to young adults who may never have traveled before. Interested applicants must submit a Sprout Participant Information Form, a medical report and current psychological evaluation.

Please feel free to contact Scott Randall, Sprout's Program Director, at 212-222-9575 or scott@gosprout.org with any questions or concerns.
